Breathitt Announcements.

We are authorized to announce E. M. COMBS a candidate for the office of Surveyor of Breathitt county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

The Democracy of the 13th Judicial

GENTLEMEN—I am a candidate for the office of Commonwealth's Attorney in this district, and subject to whatever action the people of the county may take in nominating a candidate for this office. If I should receive the nomination and be elected in August next, I promise you that I will do my best to serve the public charge, to the best of my ability, the trust imposed. Hoping that my aspirations will meet a favorable response at your hands, I am truly yours,

J. M. KASE.

"A Private Citizen," writing to the Mt. Sterling Courier, says: "I hope that if Montgomery county shall subscribe $300,000 to the Covington and Cumberland Gap Railroad, and thinks if the county has money to subscribe that it would be better invested in extending the Kentucky and South Atlantic Rail way. We agree with him in this. If Montgomery would subscribe the sum stated, this entire section would be one vast wasteland in less than five years, and Mt. Sterling could be made the terminus which would be the best terminal point in the mountains. To this point, timber, coal, iron ore, lumber, and an immense amount of agricultural products would be brought for shipment over a road ending here. More than this, If Montgomery would subscribe the sum stated, this entire section would be one vast wasteland in less than five years, and Mt. Sterling could be made the terminus which would be the best terminal point in the mountains."

Our school system should be improved and its revenues increased. The promise of federal aid must not be allowed to stand. We have always been anxious to see the clearly expressed purpose of educating the children of the State. We have paused long enough in this good work. The condition of education may well be a source of shame and mortification. It is a blot which Federal aid can not remove; it is a work which each State must do for itself. We must have better schools in Kentucky, and the people must not look to the Federal Government, but to the next Legislature, to provide these schools.

The Next Legislature.

[Courtesy-Journal.]

The people of Kentucky expect much good work from the next Legislature. During recent years too much time and too little attention have been devoted to the consideration of local matters or of personal bills; consequently we real interests of the people have suffered grievously. Bills of the first importance have been thrust aside that some purely local measures covering some job may be considered and passed. The men who will preside over the legislature of this fall will soon realize the hearty spirit of the people.

Public measures of the most important character may be divided into three classes.

First—Those looking to a more rigid enforcement of our criminal laws.

Second—Those designed to improve our revenue system and to protect the State Treasury.

Third—Those relating to the public school system.

Our people insist that crime shall be punished, that taxation shall be equal; that the ignorant shall be educated, and laborers such as are here marked out may well engage for the entire session our most careful and our most intelligent representation.

The protracted condition of many counties in Eastern Kentucky, the prevalence of crime in that section, and the importance of the law, call loudly for changes which shall strike at the heart of the evil. The Governor must be allowed to assign the Judge of one circuit to service in an other, when in his judgement the interest of the Commonwealth require it. In the case of disease, the Governor should be allowed to appoint the Judge pro tem. In addition, other changes relating to the jury system are certainly required.

Our system of assessment is extremely faulty and extremely unsatisfactory. The rate of taxation is high enough—it is indeed too high—but so much property escapes taxation and so much assessed value is always lost. A tax which is needed will inflict pain on the counties their own expenses, substituting local taxation for many purposes, the expenses of which are now charged to the state. In this way alone is it possible to limit local extravagance.

Our school system should be improved and its revenues increased. The promise of federal aid must not be allowed to stand. We have always been anxious to see the clearly expressed purpose of educating the children of the State. We have paused long enough in this good work. The condition of education may well be a source of shame and mortification. It is a blot which Federal aid can not remove; it is a work which each State must do for itself. We must have better schools in Kentucky, and the people must not look to the Federal Government, but to the next Legislature, to provide these schools.

From Missouri to Texas.

SHERMAN, TEXAS, Oct. 19.
EDITOR OF THE HAZEL GREEN HERALD:

Missouri, after 40 days traveled by wagon, with you write only a line.

We left Hopkins, Northwest Missouri, and traveled 55 miles to St. Joseph, a good town on the Missouri River, which your readers will remember as the scene of the murder of Jesse James, the outlaw, by Bob Ford, for the reward.

When we arrived there, like thousands of other people, we took a walk to the church where the famous trial was held.

Mr. C. W. Wilder of Henderson, was elected Grand Master of the Masonic Order for Kentucky, the 20th, and Mr. James W. Cooper, of the Leavenworth Lodge, Grand Master.

Beattyville Enterprise: We are pained to learn of the death of H. W. Gardner of congestion. He had been ill for some time and remained quiet. It was a rising young attorney-at-law, well-known to the mountain people among whom his practice was growing to great proportions.

The rain to the corn crop by recent heavy rains has been very great throughout Northern Georgia, North Carolina, and lower East Tennessee. The corn, which was in full bloom, stands now thoroughly saturated and immature fields are entirely ruined.

Miss Mary Anderson brought back from Europe, not money, but health, and was received with open arms by her friends.

But I must travel on. We crossed the Missouri River at Leavenworth, Kansas, another splendid town. The only thing unexpectedly noticed by me in Leavenworth, was a saloon in every block, and the Howard was the famous Jesse James; probably the most successful bank and train robber of any age.

A Fortune in Seventeen Years,
[Clark County Democrat.]

Jerry V. Robinson, of Belton, Mo., who, with his family, are visiting relatives in the county, left Clark county seventeen years ago. He and his son, Frank, moved to western Missouri when that country was being settled, and took up their abode in the mountains of the state. They followed the trail to the Blue and the latter to Kansas city. Fortunate smile on them and they soon went into partnership at Belton, then and there kept a general store and the village post office. Two years ago, owing to the health of Frank, they sold out their store and went into the stock business, since when they have been successful, and have even a farm of over 400 acres which almost surround the town of Belton, now a thriving city with two railroads. They are largely interested in fine cattle breeding. Their success has been far in excess of their most sanguine expectations. This good luck could not have been bestowed upon two more worthy gentlemen than they.
